THE FOLLOWING POLICIES APPLY TO STUDENT USE OF THE LAW SCHOOL STUDY ROOMS:

- Study rooms may only be reserved by groups of two or more law students.
- Reservations by any student group are limited to a maximum of four hours per day.
- Reservations should be made at least one business day in advance, but not more than three.
- Study room users may be asked for CrimsonCard identification.
- A person or group using a study room without a reservation must leave when a group with a reservation arrives.
- Furniture is not to be removed from or brought into a study room.
- The law school is not responsible for personal property.

Please note:
- All study room requests must be approved (reservations will appear on the calendar only after approval) and requests may be cancelled without notice for purposes of administering final exams or other exceptional circumstances.
- Any student reservations not adhering to the policies mentioned above may be deleted by the calendar administrator without notice (including all student reservations made as reoccurrences or more than three days in advance).
